Carrington Health The Gender Equity Project

Not all partners are organisational – sometimes your partners are sitting at the computer desk next to you! Carrington Health initiated an internal ‘Gender Equity Project,’ to promote equity in their workplace. As part of excellent reflective practice, they assessed their workplace culture through staff surveys, an internal document analysis, and consultations with staff, managers, executives and other key informants. This was used to inform an action plan that will launch the project into its next phase, which entails examining how Carrington Health’s programs and services could be delivered to community more equitably. These GE actions contribute to the success of their Integrated Health Promotion Plan and the Together for Equality & Respect partnership.
